Problem Statement

People who want to attend events face many problems today. They need different apps to find events, buy tickets, get directions to the venue, and shop for event merchandise. Switching between these apps wastes time and makes the experience confusing. Users also miss out on knowing about nearby restaurants, tourist spots, or other fun places they could visit before or after the event. This scattered approach makes event planning difficult and less enjoyable for everyone.

Solution

Our system solves these problems by putting everything in one place. Users can search for events they like, book tickets with safe online payment, and get step-by-step directions from where they are to the event location using GPS. The app also suggests other nearby events they might enjoy and shows interesting places to visit around the venue like cafes, parks, or shopping areas. Plus, users can buy event-related items like t-shirts, posters, and souvenirs directly in the app. This all-in-one platform makes attending events simple, saves time, and helps people get the most out of their experience from start to finish.
